Based on the way the question is worded, I think we need to clarify CFAC, otherwise we are implying that the reference to Glencore is accurate.

How's below?

We are currently in negotiations with CFAC to ensure that that all parties can come to an agreement on the Administrative Order of Consent which includes the Remedial Investigation and Feasibility Study and continues on through the cleanup process.

Re-reading Mike's proposed answer I see that it doesn't explicitly confirm that we are negotiating with Glencore, so maybe it's fine. To your question, Rich, we are not currently negotiating with any other parties, just CFAC.

I was contemplating the same thing, but sometimes that leads into more questions from the reporters?

Maybe this is splitting hairs, but I think it's more accurate to say that we are in negotiations with Columbia Falls Aluminum Company. Glencore is not a party to our proposed AOC and we have not made a determination that they are a PRP.

FYI – Here is a reporter from the Wall Street Journal regarding CFAC.

Mark and Mike – Could you help Cynthia and Rich with a response? He's looking for a short turnaround.

Thanks,
Rob

Subject: Quick Question On Columbia Falls Proposed Superfund Site

Hi Rob and Rich,

Quick question on the proposed Superfund listing at Columbia Falls. Is it accurate to say that the EPA is currently negotiation with Glencore to ensure the company remains involved in the cleanup process?

Answer: We are currently in negotiations to ensure that that all parties can come to an agreement on the Administrative Order of Consent which includes the Remedial Investigation and Feasibility Study and continues on through the cleanup process.

Do the negotiations involve the extent of financial responsibility the company has in the proposed cleanup?

Answer: Yes

In general, financial assurance provisions in settlements and orders require PRPs to demonstrate that adequate financial resources are available to complete required cleanup work.

Figuring out the most accurate way to phrase this, so if you could let get back to me this morning at some point, I'd be grateful.

Many thanks,

DF
